Sample Mentor Texts to Teach Writing Grades K-2

Ralph Fletcher explains that mentor texts are, "...any texts that you can learn from, and every writer, no matter how skilled you are or how beginning you are, encounters and reads something that can lift and inform and infuse their own writing."

"By using mentor texts, the reader can virtually position him-or herself to sit beside the author and study how the text is constructed and how it communicates. It is a powerful teaching and learning strategy....."

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Red is Best by Kathy Stinson</td>
<td>In this book, little Kelly plays her opinion against her mother’s practical advice. Kelly loves red and her belongings that are red. She wants to wear the red mittens because they make better snowballs, and the red boots because they take bigger steps and in the red cup, she tells her mother, juice tastes better.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Don’t Want to Be a Pea! by Ann Bonwill</td>
<td>Hugo and Bella are best buds but they can’t agree on what to dress up as for the fairy tale fancy dress party. They both explain why he or she should dress as a certain character disagreeing about what to dress up all along. It ends with a sweet compromise.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don’t Let the Pigeon Drive the Bus by Mo Willems</td>
<td>When a bus driver takes a break from his route, a very unlikely volunteer springs up to take his place—a pigeon! But you’ve never met one like this before. As he pleads, wheedles, and begs his way through the book, children will love being able to answer back and decide his fate.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Wanna New Room by Karen Kaufman</td>
<td>As in I Wanna Iguana (2004), this story about a child tired of sharing a room with his pesky little brother is told through letters and illustrated in energetic, cartoon-style illustrations. Alex pleads for his own room and complains about his little brother.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Wanna Iguanna by Karen Kaufman, Orloff</td>
<td>Alex just has to convince his mom to let him have an iguana, so he puts his arguments in writing. He promises that she won’t have to feed it or clean its cage or even see it if she doesn’t want to.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Day the Crayons Quit by Drew Daywalt</td>
<td>Poor Duncan just wants to color. But when he opens his box of crayons, he finds only letters, all saying the same thing: His crayons have had enough! Each crayon has their own opinion why they shouldn’t color anymore. What can Duncan possibly do to appease all of the crayons and get them back to doing what they do best?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Earrings by Judith Viorst</td>
<td>A young girl uses various arguments to convince her parents to let her have her ears pierced.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Click, Clack, Moo: Cows That Type by Doreen Cronin</td>
<td>Farmer Brown is used to all the sounds he hears on his farm. The clucks of the chickens, the quacks of the ducks, and the loud moos of the cows. Then one morning, a sound rings through the fields: Click, clack moo. It seems that his cows have begun to type on the old typewriter. Not only that, they have also typed a request. The barn is chilly and they need electric blankets.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hey Little Ant by Phillip Hoos &amp; Debbie Tilley</td>
<td>What would you do if the ant you were about to step on looked up and started talking? Would you stop and listen? What if your friends saw you hesitate? That’s what happens in this funny, thought-provoking book.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Perfect Pet by Margie Palatini</td>
<td>When Elizabeth campaigns to find the right pet, her family imagines some hair-raising possibilities, until Doug comes along—who is, without a doubt, the most unusual, perfect pet of all.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All The Places to Love by Patricia MacLachlan</td>
<td>Within the sanctuary of a loving family, baby Eli is born and, as he grows, ‘learns to cherish the people and places around him, eventually passing on what he has discovered to his new baby sister, Sylvie: ‘All the places to love are here . . . no matter where you may live.’</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LaRue for Mayor: Letters from the Campaign by Mark Teague</td>
<td>Canine everyman Ike LaRue returns to take on the political machine in this gleeful tale, the third of Mark Teague’s best-selling, award winning DEAR MRS. LARUE series. Ike finds his civil liberties at risk when Hugo Bugwort, the hard line mayoral candidate, promises to crack down on free-roaming, fun-loving dogs</td>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The Adventures of Beekle: The Unimaginary Friend by Dan Santat</td>
<td>This magical story begins on an island far away where an imaginary friend is born. He patiently waits his turn to be chosen by a real child, but when he is overlooked time and again, he sets off on an incredible journey to the bustling city, where he finally meets his perfect match and-at long last-is given his special name: Beekle.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Snowy Day by Ezra Jack Keats</td>
<td>The adventures of a little boy in the city on a very snowy day.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Good Dog Fergus by David Shannon</td>
<td>Follow Fergus as he experiences the perfect doggy day--well, except for his bath, of course! From chasing cats and motorcycles to being scratched on his favorite “tickle spot,”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fireflies by Julie Brinckloe</td>
<td>A young boy is proud of having caught a jar full of fireflies, which seems to him like owning a piece of moonlight, but as the light begins to dim he realizes he must set the insects free or they will die.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ira Sleeps Over by Bernard Waber</td>
<td>Ira is thrilled to spend the night at Reggie’s, until his sister raises the question of whether he should take his teddy bear. A little boy is excited at the prospect of spending the night at his friend’s house but worries how he’ll get along without his teddy bear.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Kissing Hand by Audrey Penn</td>
<td>Chester is worried about starting school, Owl’s school to be exact, and wants to stay home by Mom’s side instead.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bippity Bop Barbershop by Natasha Tarpley</td>
<td>A young boy, Miles, makes his first trip to the barbershop with his father. Like most little boys, he is afraid of the sharp scissors, the buzzing razor, and the prospect of picking a new hairstyle. But with the support of his dad, the barber, and the other men in the barbershop, Miles bravely sits through his first haircut.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Night Shift Daddy by Eileen Spinelli</td>
<td>This book is about a girl whose father works while she sleeps at night. Both art and text set a joyful opening scene, as the child’s day winds down and her father gears up for work; a painting shows the man swinging his daughter up in the air in a yolk-colored kitchen, then settling in to read to her and her teddy bear.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>When I Was Young in the Mountains by Cynthia Rylant</td>
<td>An evocative remembrance of the simple pleasures in country living; splashing in the swimming hole, taking baths in the kitchen, sharing family times, each is eloquently portrayed here in both the misty-hued scenes and in the poetic text.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shoes from Grandpa by Mem Fox</td>
<td>Jessie, an active girl of nine or so, is growing out of her clothes, and all of the members of her large and loving family get carried away in their eagerness to provide her with a new wardrobe.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Story of Ferdinand by Munro Leaf</td>
<td>Ferdinand is the world’s most peaceful—and—beloved little bull. While all of the other bulls snort, leap, and butt their heads, Ferdinand is content to just sit and smell the flowers under his favorite cork tree.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Fantastic Flying Books of Mr. Morris Lessmore by William Joyce</td>
<td>The Fantastic Flying Books of Mr. Morris Lessmore is a modern masterpiece, showing that in today’s world of traditional books, eBooks, and apps, it’s story that we truly celebrate—and this story, no matter how you tell it, begs to be read again and again.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Green Eggs and Ham by Dr. Seuss</td>
<td>“Do you like green eggs and ham?” asks Sam-I-am in this Beginner Book by Dr. Seuss. In a house or with a mouse? In a boat or with a goat? On a train or in a tree? Sam keeps asking persistently. With unmistakable characters and signature rhymes, Dr. Seuss’s beloved favorite is a children’s classic.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dragons Love Tacos by Adam Rubin</td>
<td>Dragons love tacos. They love chicken tacos, beef tacos, great big tacos, and teeny tiny tacos. So if you want to lure a bunch of dragons to your party, you should definitely serve tacos. Unfortunately, where there are tacos, there is also salsa. And if a dragon accidentally eats spicy salsa? Oh, boy! You’re in red-hot trouble.</td>
